

Image not found or type unknown

Stone house

Category

Competitions

Authors

Alexander Poroshkin

Ekaterina Zrazhevskaya

Elena Grabtsenko

Year

2012

There are no right angles and strict geometry in nature, the environment is organic and functional.

The bureau architects decided to create a house that would be associated with natural elements, such as stone, rock, seashell, bird's nest. They wanted to achieve an effect when the house blends in the local landscape and becomes its noticeable focal point.

Despite the atypical form, the functional integrity of the house is clearly defined, corresponds to the usual housing parameters and fits into resident's lifestyle.

MAParchitects — maparchitects.ru

